

MALMESBURY PRIMARY SCHOOL

Newsletter: 26th January 2024

Dear parents, carers

Our school values represent what we stand for here at Malmesbury. At the end of last term, our staff team came together to update our values to ensure they continue to best support us as a community. Our 5 updated values will shape our conversations and the learning we do as we support our children to amazing young individuals and great community members.

We are Curious. We want to understand the world we live in. We are keen to learn about others' thinking, ideas and beliefs. We know knowledge gives us power so we ask questions and listen to the answers. We question the things we don't understand. We explore. We build our love of learning.

Our Year 6 embodied our Curiosity value last Friday during their Cambridge University trip – they were polite, respectful, keen to understand and full of questions.

Join us for for tea, coffee and a session with our school nurse, Farah Azmina, about childhood illnesses.

What are the signs of various childhood illnesses?
What can you do to prevent them? How can you support your child when they are unwell? When should you keep them off school? When should they keep coming into school?

Come along to learn, share and chat to other parents/carers.

Farah and a colleague will also be available between 2pm and 3pm on Tuesday 30th January for a 1:1 chat about your child's health - this is a great opportunity to speak to a medical professional
without having to make an appointment.
